

SOME ORIGINS OF MEDITERRANEAN GULLS IN NORTHUMBERLAND (9th update)

This 9th update includes new sightings from 2019 and peak Mediterranean Gull numbers from Newbiggin & the surrounding area for the past year. Yet again, the headline is the continued increase in numbers, with both the January-February period and post-breeding numbers breaking all previous records. Early morning on the 8th August produced a count of 70 birds (including 14 juveniles – 20%) at Newbiggin but during mid-morning a new arrival of birds took place which saw Clive Hartley record a total of 194 in Newbiggin Bay.

The surrounding area also saw ever-increasing numbers, with notable gatherings involving 52 in a field near Widdrington Moor Lake on 9th August (Jonathan Farooqi), 90+ on the beach off Cresswell on 19th August (Andy McLevy) and 130 in the Lynemouth-Cresswell area on 1st September (Mike Hodgson).

Previous updates have focussed on post-breeding birds moving in from the Continent and their annual circuits to Newbiggin, points south and then back to their breeding grounds. This time I have chosen to look at a few local movements.

With more and more colour-ringed birds being in the vicinity and perhaps more birders keen to look for colour-rings, it is unsurprising to note several birds being reported at a number of sites across the region; a few examples are as follows:

Polish ringed PNY8 has been wintering in the region since late 2014 and over subsequent winters has now been recorded at Arcot Pond, Big Waters, Holywell Pond, St Mary's Island and South Shields.

Dutch ringed 3EKV visited the Alnmouth estuary, Arcot Pond and Big Waters during November-December 2018.

Belgian ringed 3YLH was seen at Newbiggin 23/07/19 and 08/08/19 and then Cresswell Pond on 05/10/19 – confirming the belief that some of the Newbiggin birds wander up and down the coast, perhaps when disturbed by day visitors to Newbiggin Bay. German ringed AYLS also commuted between Newbiggin and Cresswell beach during autumn 2019.

Locally bred 2X2R, 2X3R and 2X4H birds from Coquet Island have all been seen in the natal region in subsequent years – hopefully these birds will get reported for many years to come.
